Explore the geology of the Sebasticook River watershed

Join geologist John Hopek for an exploration of the bedrock and glacial influences in the Sebasticook River watershed on Saturday, September 11, from 9 a.m. – 1 p.m.

The carpool caravan will begin in Unity for an illustration of ice-age delta deposits that underlie the town. Traveling north, see evidence of large glacial streams that formed the delta and are a source of groundwater. Along the route John will point out competing land uses and talk about possible strategies for groundwater protection. The last part of the trip will focus on ancient marine deposits that form the bedrock of the watershed, including key geologic structures that are signs of continental collisions and mountain-building events.

Please bring a bag lunch and water to enjoy on the road and plan to carpool. Participants should be prepared to walk on uneven surfaces and steep slopes. The program is free, however reservations are necessary. RSVP to Sebasticook Regional Land Trust, volunteers@unitymaine.org or 948-3766, no later than Friday, September 10.
